Dear Parents, Carers & Grandparents,

Teachers often get asked by parents how they can support their children in their learning. One of the best, most effective ways is to encourage and support their reading.

As previously mentioned in this month's newsletter, I will be delivering a parents' Reading Workshop session, where we talk through some suggestions of supporting your child read. We promise it will be totally informal and hopefully enjoyable. We are even supplying refreshments!

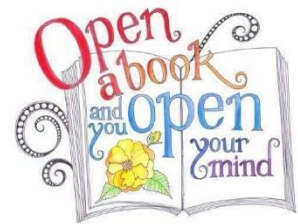

This will take place on Wednesday 4th October @ 5pm. I am hoping that this will mean that working parents also have the opportunity to attend, however I have included on the slip below an alternative option of arranging other times during the day for those of you who might find this time difficult.

During the session there will be opportunities to look at the standard tests expected within each year group, look at the schools reading offer and tips on how to support your child to make progress.

I look forward to seeing you there.
