

Handwriting Examples for each year group.

Please see our Handwriting Policy

Year 3

Personal hygiene
Everyone needs to stay clean and healthy. Washing your hands is really important. You should wash your hands regularly because if you sneeze and cough you should wash your hands. You should take a shower twice a week even if you don't like it you should still take two. Add more adverbs. You don't know why. To stay healthy it's really important that all members of family wash their hands and spaces properly. You should also brush your teeth twice a day.

Year 4

Dear Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Asda,
I am writing this letter to you to inform you about the utterly barbaric pollution that you are helping to grow without even realising. I strongly believe that you as a successful, international company, can make a significant impact on this situation. This is vital as only this morning I (with my own eyes) witnessed the horrors of how pollution affects the world. This video highlighted how the majestic wildlife suffers because of our mistakes. You have stacks of you have stacks of plastic EVERYWHERE! It is your responsibility. Here are some ideas to help you.
One of the ways to support stopping this disastrous cause is to start eradicating the small plastic bags that are used for fresh fruit and vegetables. They are completely unnecessary; you should provide small paper bags or nothing at all. You need to use paper bags because they are biodegradable and click! click! Went the receptionist typing into space, as Alice Rylie was waiting patiently for Dr. M. Dawson. At that last second, Rylie's name came out of nowhere on a huge teletext. Next please!" gurgled the receptionist. Rylie chucked toward door number 666 as the receptionist silently stared at him. "Good bright and sunny morning young Rylie Toolsmey, singson Dr. Dawson." "Alice's heart pounded immediately as he tried to speak. "Good morning," Rylie chirped as he slipped into the ancient, uncomfortable, dentist chair. It looked like something that was built in the 1850s.

Year 5

Just then Rylie noticed a collection of sharp blood-stained knives stacked on a wooden table. "What is your problem," suggested Dr. Dawson. "I have a really bad cold and infected tonsils and I keep getting tonsillitis," complained Rylie.

Year 6

who pressed himself up against the glass, looked out at the black abyss - which was illuminated with arrays of silvers, golds and pinks. Liam felt extremely proud and was excited to be in space. All of a sudden, he pushed a button, which had faded out the bright red. Almost instantly, red and yellow lights began flashing on the left side of the space-craft. That also came with a loud alarm, sending Liam to pure shock. Smoke leaked out of the dashboard making it almost impossible to see. Liam struggled to reach the control lever and to push the correct buttons. Suddenly he was flying across the sky to an unknown location.

The rocket crashed onto something that seemed like a forest. Liam, who was lay squinting his eyes on the floor, stood up with a few scars on his arms and what looked like a broken helmet. He searched the walls for a switch that would open the doors. Liam stepped onto the hot, burning ground.